

---

Presented as 9th International Conference on Vaccines Research & Development

---

The research results on the efficacy and safety of sublingual vaccines were presented three times at the 9th International Conference on Vaccines Research & Development held in Boston, USA from November 11th to 13th (one oral presentation, two poster presentations). The development of sublingual vaccines has attracted attention from researchers around the world and is expected to be the vaccine of the future.

For more information on the 9th International Conference on Vaccines Research & Development, click here.

Link : Vaccines Research & Development Conference | Vaccines Conferences | Vaccines R&D 2024

【About EPS Innovative Medicine Co., Ltd.】

We are a core company of EPS Creative Health Technology Group Co., Ltd. in the pharmaceutical discovery business. Our goal is to develop the seeds introduced from academia and Biotech venture companies and the seeds found in our research department based on the knowledge and know-how cultivated by the EPS Group over many years, expanding the value of seeds and aims at promoting to Japan and China markets, or to license out to the partner enterprises.